A Good morning. Please take a seat. I'll be with you in a moment … Now, how can I help you?
B Could you help us to find a hotel in London, please?
A Yes, of course. Would you like a hotel in the city centre?
B Yes, if possible.
A OK, how about the Hotel Stella? They've got some rooms free.
B Is it near an underground station?
A Yes, it is. It's about five minutes' walk from Marble Arch station. And it's very close to Hyde Park. It's one of the nicest hotels in London.
B Great. Can you ask if they have a double room for three nights? And can you check the price?
A Yes, sure. I'm afraid hotels in London are really expensive. A lot of people think that London's the most expensive city for tourists in the world.
B Yes, the hotel that we stayed in last year cost over £200 a night!
A Right, I've booked it for you. When you come out of the underground station, go along Edgware Road for about 200 metres and it's on the right, opposite a cinema.
B Brilliant. Thanks very much.

4 Could you tell me where the staff restaurant is, please?
5 Then go down the corridor and it's the first office on the right.
6 Go up the stairs to the third floor.
7 So, can I just check?
8 Right, I think I've got that.
9 At the top of the stairs, turn right and go along another corridor.
10 The meeting room is the second door on the left.

REPORTER Police are looking for two men who stole money from a cash machine outside Western Bank in Harris Road, Bakersfield at midnight last night. The men arrived at the bank in a large car and crashed into the cash machine on purpose four times. Margaret Edwards is the woman who saw what happened.
MARGARET I live opposite the bank and was in bed at the back of the apartment. But just before midnight, I got up to go to the bathroom. When I heard a car going very fast, I went into the front living room and looked out the window. I've never seen anything like it. The car drove up to the cash machine at about 50 miles per hour and didn't stop. I thought it was an accident, but amazingly they did it again and again. I called the police immediately.
R What did the men do next?
M They got out of the car, put on some gloves and tried to break the cash machine open with a baseball bat which they got from the back of the car. Fortunately, they couldn't open the machine but then, the driver got back into the car and drove into it again.
R Can you describe the men?
M Yes, I can. Fortunately, there were street lights on, so it was easy to see them. The man who was driving the car was about 20 years old, very tall and with very short hair. The other man was about the same age, was short and had dark hair, a hat and sunglasses.
R Erm … how long did it take them to get the machine open?
M Unfortunately, the second time the machine broke and they could steal some money. Luckily, the police also arrived at this time so the men only managed to take a small amount of money. They quickly jumped back into the car and tried to drive off. But they drove backwards into a road sign and then, unsurprisingly, the car didn't start because it was so damaged. So they got out and ran away down Park Avenue.
R Did the police go after them?
M Yes, the police car followed them, but the men ran into the park and disappeared.
R I hear that you found something nearby.
M Yes, I found a key ring with the name Terry on it and a house key. It was next to the car. I think one of the men dropped it. I gave it to the police when they came back.
R And what about the car?
M The police think that the men stole it from a car park earlier in the day.
R Thank you, Mrs Edwards. Photos of the two men which were taken by security cameras outside the bank will be on the TV programme Everyday Criminals on RBC1 tonight at 8. And now, over to Adam with today's sports news.

  B You're absolutely right. I try and do a few exercises every night.
2 A I think Brazil have the best football team in the world.
  B I'm not sure about that. I think Argentina will beat them in the final.
3 A In my opinion, Venice is a more attractive city than Florence.
  B Definitely. It's such a beautiful place to visit. I love it!
4 A This is a nicer cinema than the one we went to last week.
  B I agree. The seats are very comfortable and the screen is wider.
5 A Barcelona is the biggest city in Spain.
  B I don't think so. I think there are more people in Madrid, actually.
6 A Leonardo DiCaprio is a better actor than Brad Pitt.
  B That's true. He was brilliant in The Great Gatsby.
7 A In my view, Italian coffee is better than French coffee.
  B I'm sorry, but how do you know? You don't drink coffee!
8 A I think the weather in the UK in winter is much better than in Germany.
  B I'm afraid I don't agree. Here it rains so much in January and February. I can't stand it!

DAISY So, where have you been in India so far, Brad?
BRAD I flew into Delhi and took the train down across to Jaipur. I'm going to Goa next. Have you been there, Lewis?
LEWIS Yeah, Goa's cool. We're going to Kerala. How's your trip been so far, Brad?
B Apart from the mosquitoes and the spiders, pretty good. I had a great time in Delhi. I stayed with this Indian guy, Raj, who I'd met through the website Couchsurfing.org. He was really sociable and took me to some really amazing places.
D Yeah, we've met some great Indian people. Really friendly and generous.
B Yeah, but not everyone. I had a pretty bad time in Jaipur.
D What happened?
B I met these two brothers, Jay and Vikram, in a tea house. Jay was really funny and confident. He knew a lot about California. Viki was older and a bit more sensible. They offered to show me around and they seemed reliable so I agreed. We went sightseeing and they told me about their lives. Viki said that they could take me to see some tigers the next day if I wanted.
L Sounds cool.
B Well, then they started telling me about their business. They sold jewellery. They took me to their factory and showed me around. Then they tried to sell me some. I didn't want to, but in the end I said I would buy a small piece. They said it would be ready the next day and then took me back to my hostel. The next day I felt a bit anxious, but went to their factory to collect the jewellery. They had made my piece and had made 30 other necklaces too. They said that this was what I had asked for the day before. They told me that I would have to pay 100 dollars for the jewellery. I had only taken 10 dollars with me when I left that morning. Jay said that he would take me to a cash machine to get the money. I hadn't taken my credit card with me, but I didn't tell him that. We drove to a bank and we all got out. I didn't know where I was, but I decided to run away. I started running and Jay followed me. But I was faster and after a few minutes I was safe. I waited behind a dustbin in a small street for a while and then went onto the main road and found a taxi. The driver could see how anxious I was and drove me back to the hostel. I told him what had happened and he was quite angry with them. He was really generous and didn't charge me anything. The next day I took the first train out of Jaipur!
L Sounds awful. But hey, that's a pretty cool story you've got.
D Yeah.
B Yeah, I know. I'm sure you've got some stories. And we've got another three hours on this train!
L No worries, mate. So, we were in Varanasi …

Hi Paul
Hope you're having a good holiday in Ireland.
I'm spending two weeks with my brother and his family here in Turkey. I don't speak Turkish, but my brother's wife and his three children speak very good English, so communication isn't a problem.
They live about 30 km from Istanbul in a small town on the Bosphorus. It's very hot at the moment, but they have a lovely swimming pool near their house, so we go swimming there every day.
I'm visiting lots of amazing places with my brother's family. Yesterday we went to the Grand Bazaar in the centre of Istanbul. It's an enormous indoor market and there are over 3,000 shops. I'm sending you a photo of it. I bought a lovely leather handbag.
My brother's house has a big garden, so we usually have dinner outside in the evenings, when it isn't so hot. We normally eat at about ten o'clock. My sister-in-law's a brilliant cook, so the food is delicious!
I'm having a lovely time in Turkey.
See you back at work next month.
Becky

Carlos and I got to New York at 14:30 this afternoon. It was a very long flight from Madrid and we were very tired when we arrived because we couldn't sleep on the plane. When we got off the plane the first thing we noticed was the cold – minus six degrees! It was freezing! Everything they say about New York is true! The people at the airport weren't very friendly and we couldn't understand them because they spoke so quickly. In the end we took the subway from JFK Airport to the city centre. We're staying at The Crowne Plaza Hotel near Central Park. The hotel is full of European tourists and everyone was very friendly and helpful. Carlos is telling me to get ready to go and eat, so I have to finish now – more tomorrow.

Hello everyone
This email is to say a big 'Thank you!' to everyone who helped us to raise money for Save the Children over the past twelve months. We have successfully raised £495!
Most of you came to the Save the Children sports day in September. That was a brilliant event and we all had lots of fun. A lot of you also came to our 1990s karaoke evening in October. And, of course, next week there's our popular quiz night with big prizes for the winning team.
Save the Children will use our money to save children's lives and to give them a future. Last year, Save the Children helped ten million children around the world. A small amount can make a big difference. For example, just £3 can save the lives of eight children with stomach virus.
Would you like to help us raise more money for Save the Children? Email us and we can tell you about our future events. Thanks again for all your help.

Dear Sir/Madam,
I am writing to apply for the job of sales assistant, which you advertised in The Argus newspaper.
I am a student at the University of Sussex and I am available to work from October.
A job with you will be an exciting opportunity for me to learn new skills and to work in a new environment. I have a lot of experience of working in sales. Last summer I worked for three months in a very busy shop selling mobile phones and tablets and I think this experience will be very useful in this job.
I attach a copy of my CV with more details about my previous employment.
Could you give me more information about the salary and working hours, and also more details of your training programme?
I look forward to hearing from you.
Yours faithfully,

a Suggested answer:
Dear Kento
Thanks for your message and I'm glad that you've written to me to ask for some ideas.
I remember when I was learning Japanese, listening was the most difficult thing for me, too. I could understand when my teacher was talking to me, but it was very hard to understand when other people were speaking. Here are some ideas to help you improve your listening in English.
First of all, don't worry if you don't understand every word you hear. That's impossible! You should concentrate only on the most important words.
Secondly, try to get extra listening practice outside the classroom. For instance, you can go to the study centre and practise listening with their CDs, such as the CDs from your Student's Book. You should also listen to the radio in English and watch English or American TV. It's a good idea to watch films with the subtitles.
Next, you can also practise listening to podcasts from the Internet. It's easy to download short stories onto your computer or tablet. Finally, it's a good idea to listen to pop songs while you read the words at the same time. There are lots of internet sites that give you the words of the most popular pop songs.
I hope this helps and please feel free to talk to me after class next week.
Best wishes
Tina

About two years ago, I used to travel to work every day by bus. It was an awful journey because of all the traffic and sometimes it took me over an hour to get there. So I decided that I needed to find a quicker way to travel to work. I decided to buy a bicycle. The problem was that I wasn't very fit.

I bought an old bicycle from a friend of mine. At first, I was frightened of cycling on the road with all the cars and lorries. To begin with, I took my bike to the little park near my house every day and cycled very slowly for about five or ten minutes. After a while, I started cycling along the quiet roads to the shops about two kilometres from my house. Then I started cycling the five kilometres from my house to the city centre. In the end I went everywhere on my bicycle!

Now I cycle eight kilometres to work every day and I feel really fit and healthy. It only takes me 30 minutes to get to work, so I save an hour every day.

War Horse by Michael Morpurgo is the story of Joey, a horse that is sold to the British Army at the beginning of the First World War. He is sent to France and is ridden by Captain Nicholls. However, Captain Nicholls is killed in the fighting and Joey is given to a younger soldier called Warren. While he is with Warren, Joey becomes friends with another horse called Topthorn and they have lots of adventures during the war. Later in the story, Joey and Topthorn are taken by the Germans. Topthorn is killed, but Joey works for the German army until the end of the war.
Although this book was written for children, I really enjoyed it. The story is very interesting and the characters are described very well. You can really imagine what the First World War was like. It's a beautiful story, although it's also very sad and it made me cry. However, there is a happy ending because at the end of the war Joey is returned to Albert, who was his original owner before he was sold to the army. I couldn't put the book down until I got to the end and I can definitely recommend it.

Tell us about you …
Hello everyone. I'm Hitomi and I come from Osaka, in Japan. I'm doing a Master's Degree in Economics at Tokyo University and next year I want to get a job in London or New York. I studied English for ten years at school, so I can write it quite well, but I can't speak it very well, so I need to practise!
How do you feel about this course?
I really want to learn more about American cinema because I've always loved watching American films. I hope the course will help me to improve my English. I'm looking forward to talking about all the films we're going to watch with the other students on the course (via Skype?). I'm sure my English will improve quickly during the course.
What do you do when you're not studying?
When I'm not studying, I play a lot of sport. I play tennis once or twice a week and sometimes golf at weekends. I also go to the gym at the university because I like keeping really fit. Sometimes I do yoga when I feel stressed. It really helps me to relax.

Dear Mr Hurst
Thank you for your email of 10 July about the problems you had during your stay at our hotel. I am writing to apologise for the poor service you had while you were staying with us.
Unfortunately, we have had a few problems with our website recently. I think that is why you were not given a room with a view of the sea. We have also had some problems with our water heating system in the last few weeks, so this is why sometimes there was not enough hot water for showers or baths. Finally, we did not have enough staff in our restaurant while you were staying with us because three of our waiters became ill.

In my view, the most important invention of the last 25 years has been the mobile phone. Before it was invented, if you wanted to speak to somebody on the phone, you had to be at home, in the office or in a public phone box. With a mobile phone it is much easier to keep in contact with your friends, your family and your work colleagues than before. Because it is a mobile, you can have a conversation wherever you are – in the street, at the supermarket, in a car or on a train. Because of this, it is also easier for people to stay in touch with their children or with their elderly relatives. It is also very useful to have a mobile phone if you have an accident or if you need to call the police. These days, mobile phones are not only devices that let you make phone calls and send texts. You can also take photos, record videos, listen to music, surf the Internet and talk to your friends on Facebook. I believe it's the most useful thing I have. In fact, I don't know where I would be without it.

Last year, I went on a walking holiday in Scotland with three of my friends. We had only been there for a day when the accident happened. We had just got to the top of a mountain and we were having some sandwiches that we'd made for lunch. Suddenly, the weather changed completely. It had been a clear, sunny day when we left the village where we were staying. However, now it was snowing heavily and you could only see clearly for about 20 metres. We started walking down the path towards the next village where we were going to spend the night. The snow was getting deeper, so we walked slowly down the mountain. All of us were confident walkers, so we didn't think we would have any problems. Suddenly, I heard a shout from behind me. When I turned round, my friend Anthony was lying on the ground. He said that he had fallen over a rock. As soon as I saw him, I knew it was serious. He said his leg was hurting badly and that he thought he had broken it. We decided to call for help. Fortunately, my mobile phone was getting a signal, so I managed to call the emergency services.

After a short time, the mountain rescue team arrived in their helicopter. They landed very close to where we were. They carried Anthony to the helicopter and we all got in with him. Ten minutes later, we arrived at the hospital. Luckily, Anthony's leg wasn't badly broken and they didn't need to operate. We all felt very relieved.

A Good morning. Please take a seat. I'll be with you in a moment … Now, how can I help you?
B Could you help us to find a hotel in London, please?
A Yes, of course. Would you like a hotel in the city centre?
B Yes, if possible.
A OK, how about the Hotel Stella? They've got some rooms free.
B Is it near an underground station?
A Yes, it is. It's about five minutes' walk from Marble Arch station. And it's very close to Hyde Park. It's one of the nicest hotels in London.
B Great. Can you ask if they have a double room for three nights? And can you check the price?
A Yes, sure. I'm afraid hotels in London are really expensive. A lot of people think that London's the most expensive city for tourists in the world.
B Yes, the hotel that we stayed in last year cost over £200 a night!
A Right, I've booked it for you. When you come out of the underground station, go along Edgware Road for about 200 metres and it's on the right, opposite a cinema.
B Brilliant. Thanks very much.

REPORTER Police are looking for two men who stole money from a cash machine outside Western Bank in Harris Road, Bakersfield at midnight last night. The men arrived at the bank in a large car and crashed into the cash machine on purpose four times. Margaret Edwards is the woman who saw what happened.
MARGARET I live opposite the bank and was in bed at the back of the apartment. But just before midnight, I got up to go to the bathroom. When I heard a car going very fast, I went into the front living room and looked out the window. I've never seen anything like it. The car drove up to the cash machine at about 50 miles per hour and didn't stop. I thought it was an accident, but amazingly they did it again and again. I called the police immediately.
R What did the men do next?
M They got out of the car, put on some gloves and tried to break the cash machine open with a baseball bat which they got from the back of the car. Fortunately, they couldn't open the machine but then, the driver got back into the car and drove into it again.
R Can you describe the men?
M Yes, I can. Fortunately, there were street lights on, so it was easy to see them. The man who was driving the car was about 20 years old, very tall and with very short hair. The other man was about the same age, was short and had dark hair, a hat and sunglasses.
R Erm … how long did it take them to get the machine open?
M Unfortunately, the second time the machine broke and they could steal some money. Luckily, the police also arrived at this time so the men only managed to take a small amount of money. They quickly jumped back into the car and tried to drive off. But they drove backwards into a road sign and then, unsurprisingly, the car didn't start because it was so damaged. So they got out and ran away down Park Avenue.
R Did the police go after them?
M Yes, the police car followed them, but the men ran into the park and disappeared.
R I hear that you found something nearby.
M Yes, I found a key ring with the name Terry on it and a house key. It was next to the car. I think one of the men dropped it. I gave it to the police when they came back.
R And what about the car?
M The police think that the men stole it from a car park earlier in the day.
R Thank you, Mrs Edwards. Photos of the two men which were taken by security cameras outside the bank will be on the TV programme Everyday Criminals on RBC1 tonight at 8. And now, over to Adam with today's sports news.

  B Definitely. It's such a beautiful place to visit. I love it!
4 A This is a nicer cinema than the one we went to last week.
  B I agree. The seats are very comfortable and the screen is wider.
5 A Barcelona is the biggest city in Spain.
  B I don't think so. I think there are more people in Madrid, actually.
6 A Leonardo DiCaprio is a better actor than Brad Pitt.
  B That's true. He was brilliant in The Great Gatsby.
7 A In my view, Italian coffee is better than French coffee.
  B I'm sorry, but how do you know? You don't drink coffee!
8 A I think the weather in the UK in winter is much better than in Germany.
  B I'm afraid I don't agree. Here it rains so much in January and February. I can't stand it!

1 A I think the Amazon is the longest river in the world.
  B I don't think so. Actually, I think the Nile is longer than the Amazon.
2 A Swiss chocolate is much nicer than British chocolate.
  B You're absolutely right. It's probably the best in the world.
3 A Russian is a harder language to learn than Spanish.
  B Definitely. In my view, Spanish is one of the easiest languages to learn.
4 A Everybody should retire when they reach sixty.
  B Oh, please. That's much too early! Older people have so much experience which they can pass on to their younger colleagues.
5 A Tablets are so much more practical than laptops.
  B That's true. They're much lighter and easier to carry.
6 A His last film was brilliant!
  B You're right. It's the best film he's made so far.

12.5

1 A Antonio Banderas is a Mexican actor.
  B Er, he's actually a Spanish actor.

3 A I like the American English accent.
  B Do you? I prefer British English, actually.
4 A New York's the best place to live in the USA.
  B Actually, I think San Francisco's the best place.
5 A I think Chelsea will win the Champions League this year.
  B No way! Barcelona will win it this year.
6 A Baseball is the most popular sport in the USA.
  B I'm sorry, but I think American football is the most popular sport.

DAISY So, where have you been in India so far, Brad?
BRAD I flew into Delhi and took the train down across to Jaipur. I'm going to Goa next. Have you been there, Lewis?
LEWIS Yeah, Goa's cool. We're going to Kerala. How's your trip been so far, Brad?
B Apart from the mosquitoes and the spiders, pretty good. I had a great time in Delhi. I stayed with this Indian guy, Raj, who I'd met through the website Couchsurfing.org. He was really sociable and took me to some really amazing places.
D Yeah, we've met some great Indian people. Really friendly and generous.
B Yeah, but not everyone. I had a pretty bad time in Jaipur.
D What happened?
B I met these two brothers, Jay and Vikram, in a tea house. Jay was really funny and confident. He knew a lot about California. Viki was older and a bit more sensible. They offered to show me around and they seemed reliable so I agreed. We went sightseeing and they told me about their lives. Viki said that they could take me to see some tigers the next day if I wanted.
B Well, then they started telling me about their business. They sold jewellery. They took me to their factory and showed me around. Then they tried to sell me some. I didn't want to, but in the end I said I would buy a small piece. They said it would be ready the next day and then took me back to my hostel. The next day I felt a bit anxious, but went to their factory to collect the jewellery. They had made my piece and had made 30 other necklaces too. They said that this was what I had asked for the day before. They told me that I would have to pay 100 dollars for the jewellery. I had only taken 10 dollars with me when I left that morning. Jay said that he would take me to a cash machine to get the money. I hadn't taken my credit card with me, but I didn't tell him that. We drove to a bank and we all got out. I didn't know where I was, but I decided to run away. I started running and Jay followed me. But I was faster and after a few minutes I was safe. I waited behind a dustbin in a small street for a while and then went onto the main road and found a taxi. The driver could see how anxious I was and drove me back to the hostel. I told him what had happened and he was quite angry with them. He was really generous and didn't charge me anything. The next day I took the first train out of Jaipur!
L Sounds awful. But hey, that's a pretty cool story you've got.
D Yeah.
B Yeah, I know. I'm sure you've got some stories. And we've got another three hours on this train!
L No worries, mate. So, we were in Varanasi …

Hi Paul
Hope you're having a good holiday in Ireland.
I'm spending two weeks with my brother and his family here in Turkey. I don't speak Turkish, but my brother's wife and his three children speak very good English, so communication isn't a problem.
They live about 30 km from Istanbul in a small town on the Bosphorus. It's very hot at the moment, but they have a lovely swimming pool near their house, so we go swimming there every day.
I'm visiting lots of amazing places with my brother's family. Yesterday we went to the Grand Bazaar in the centre of Istanbul. It's an enormous indoor market and there are over 3,000 shops. I'm sending you a photo of it. I bought a lovely leather handbag.
My brother's house has a big garden, so we usually have dinner outside in the evenings, when it isn't so hot. We normally eat at about ten o'clock. My sister-in-law's a brilliant cook, so the food is delicious!
I'm having a lovely time in Turkey.
See you back at work next month.
Becky

Carlos and I got to New York at 14:30 this afternoon. It was a very long flight from Madrid and we were very tired when we arrived because we couldn't sleep on the plane. When we got off the plane the first thing we noticed was the cold – minus six degrees! It was freezing! Everything they say about New York is true! The people at the airport weren't very friendly and we couldn't understand them because they spoke so quickly. In the end we took the subway from JFK Airport to the city centre. We're staying at The Crowne Plaza Hotel near Central Park. The hotel is full of European tourists and everyone was very friendly and helpful. Carlos is telling me to get ready to go and eat, so I have to finish now – more tomorrow.

Hello everyone
This email is to say a big 'Thank you!' to everyone who helped us to raise money for Save the Children over the past twelve months. We have successfully raised £495!
Most of you came to the Save the Children sports day in September. That was a brilliant event and we all had lots of fun. A lot of you also came to our 1990s karaoke evening in October. And, of course, next week there's our popular quiz night with big prizes for the winning team.
Save the Children will use our money to save children's lives and to give them a future. Last year, Save the Children helped ten million children around the world. A small amount can make a big difference. For example, just £3 can save the lives of eight children with stomach virus.
Would you like to help us raise more money for Save the Children? Email us and we can tell you about our future events. Thanks again for all your help.

Dear Sir/Madam,
I am writing to apply for the job of sales assistant, which you advertised in The Argus newspaper.
I am a student at the University of Sussex and I am available to work from October.
A job with you will be an exciting opportunity for me to learn new skills and to work in a new environment. I have a lot of experience of working in sales. Last summer I worked for three months in a very busy shop selling mobile phones and tablets and I think this experience will be very useful in this job.
I attach a copy of my CV with more details about my previous employment.
Could you give me more information about the salary and working hours, and also more details of your training programme?
I look forward to hearing from you.
Yours faithfully,

a Suggested answer:
Dear Kento
Thanks for your message and I'm glad that you've written to me to ask for some ideas.
I remember when I was learning Japanese, listening was the most difficult thing for me, too. I could understand when my teacher was talking to me, but it was very hard to understand when other people were speaking. Here are some ideas to help you improve your listening in English.
First of all, don't worry if you don't understand every word you hear. That's impossible! You should concentrate only on the most important words.
Secondly, try to get extra listening practice outside the classroom. For instance, you can go to the study centre and practise listening with their CDs, such as the CDs from your Student's Book. You should also listen to the radio in English and watch English or American TV. It's a good idea to watch films with the subtitles.
Next, you can also practise listening to podcasts from the Internet. It's easy to download short stories onto your computer or tablet. Finally, it's a good idea to listen to pop songs while you read the words at the same time. There are lots of internet sites that give you the words of the most popular pop songs.
I hope this helps and please feel free to talk to me after class next week.
Best wishes
Tina

About two years ago, I used to travel to work every day by bus. It was an awful journey because of all the traffic and sometimes it took me over an hour to get there. So I decided that I needed to find a quicker way to travel to work. I decided to buy a bicycle. The problem was that I wasn't very fit.

I bought an old bicycle from a friend of mine. At first, I was frightened of cycling on the road with all the cars and lorries. To begin with, I took my bike to the little park near my house every day and cycled very slowly for about five or ten minutes. After a while, I started cycling along the quiet roads to the shops about two kilometres from my house. Then I started cycling the five kilometres from my house to the city centre. In the end I went everywhere on my bicycle!

Now I cycle eight kilometres to work every day and I feel really fit and healthy. It only takes me 30 minutes to get to work, so I save an hour every day.

War Horse by Michael Morpurgo is the story of Joey, a horse that is sold to the British Army at the beginning of the First World War. He is sent to France and is ridden by Captain Nicholls. However, Captain Nicholls is killed in the fighting and Joey is given to a younger soldier called Warren. While he is with Warren, Joey becomes friends with another horse called Topthorn and they have lots of adventures during the war. Later in the story, Joey and Topthorn are taken by the Germans. Topthorn is killed, but Joey works for the German army until the end of the war.
Although this book was written for children, I really enjoyed it. The story is very interesting and the characters are described very well. You can really imagine what the First World War was like. It's a beautiful story, although it's also very sad and it made me cry. However, there is a happy ending because at the end of the war Joey is returned to Albert, who was his original owner before he was sold to the army. I couldn't put the book down until I got to the end and I can definitely recommend it.

Tell us about you …
Hello everyone. I'm Hitomi and I come from Osaka, in Japan. I'm doing a Master's Degree in Economics at Tokyo University and next year I want to get a job in London or New York. I studied English for ten years at school, so I can write it quite well, but I can't speak it very well, so I need to practise!
How do you feel about this course?
I really want to learn more about American cinema because I've always loved watching American films. I hope the course will help me to improve my English. I'm looking forward to talking about all the films we're going to watch with the other students on the course (via Skype?). I'm sure my English will improve quickly during the course.
What do you do when you're not studying?
When I'm not studying, I play a lot of sport. I play tennis once or twice a week and sometimes golf at weekends. I also go to the gym at the university because I like keeping really fit. Sometimes I do yoga when I feel stressed. It really helps me to relax.

Dear Mr Hurst
Thank you for your email of 10 July about the problems you had during your stay at our hotel. I am writing to apologise for the poor service you had while you were staying with us.
Unfortunately, we have had a few problems with our website recently. I think that is why you were not given a room with a view of the sea. We have also had some problems with our water heating system in the last few weeks, so this is why sometimes there was not enough hot water for showers or baths. Finally, we did not have enough staff in our restaurant while you were staying with us because three of our waiters became ill.
I hope you will come and stay at our hotel in Sorrento again. I would like to offer you a 50% discount the next time you come to the Hotel Dante. This is our way of apologising for the problems you have had.
Yours faithfully

In my view, the most important invention of the last 25 years has been the mobile phone. Before it was invented, if you wanted to speak to somebody on the phone, you had to be at home, in the office or in a public phone box. With a mobile phone it is much easier to keep in contact with your friends, your family and your work colleagues than before. Because it is a mobile, you can have a conversation wherever you are – in the street, at the supermarket, in a car or on a train. Because of this, it is also easier for people to stay in touch with their children or with their elderly relatives. It is also very useful to have a mobile phone if you have an accident or if you need to call the police. These days, mobile phones are not only devices that let you make phone calls and send texts. You can also take photos, record videos, listen to music, surf the Internet and talk to your friends on Facebook. I believe it's the most useful thing I have. In fact, I don't know where I would be without it.

Last year, I went on a walking holiday in Scotland with three of my friends. We had only been there for a day when the accident happened. We had just got to the top of a mountain and we were having some sandwiches that we'd made for lunch. Suddenly, the weather changed completely. It had been a clear, sunny day when we left the village where we were staying. However, now it was snowing heavily and you could only see clearly for about 20 metres. We started walking down the path towards the next village where we were going to spend the night. The snow was getting deeper, so we walked slowly down the mountain. All of us were confident walkers, so we didn't think we would have any problems. Suddenly, I heard a shout from behind me. When I turned round, my friend Anthony was lying on the ground. He said that he had fallen over a rock. As soon as I saw him, I knew it was serious. He said his leg was hurting badly and that he thought he had broken it. We decided to call for help. Fortunately, my mobile phone was getting a signal, so I managed to call the emergency services.

After a short time, the mountain rescue team arrived in their helicopter. They landed very close to where we were. They carried Anthony to the helicopter and we all got in with him. Ten minutes later, we arrived at the hospital. Luckily, Anthony's leg wasn't badly broken and they didn't need to operate. We all felt very relieved.
